A strong Gatwick would support the region's economic growth as air traffic recovers and could:

GENERATE 50K NEW JOBS BY 2028

GENERATE £8.4B FOR THE REGION

Put another way, that is enough to annually support:

70,000 nurses OR 220,000 primary school places

What a strong Gatwick can do for the local region

Two economic reports published last month highlight the impact of Gatwick's revival to supporting the region's economic recovery.

A new report by economics consultants, Lichfields, reveals that a revived Gatwick would support the region's economic diversification by making the area attractive to new and emerging industrial clusters. A report by Oxera shows how a return to air traffic to levels forecast before the pandemic would support over 50,000 new on-airport, supply chain and other business-related jobs across the region by 2028.

As an airport, we have committed to maximise the benefits we provide for local people, communities and businesses through a range of initiatives that focus on skills employment, sustainability and our extensive supply chains, which support many thousands of jobs across the South East.

Returning Gatwick to full health is important for many reasons, including for those who rely on the airport and its supply chains for employment. Or for the hotels, restaurants and attractions across the South East that depend on the tourists who normally arrive at the airport in large numbers.

We recognise however that the airport also creates other impacts, including aircraft noise. We know this issue remains a concern for some in our communities and we appreciate that many local people will have become used to quieter skies during the pandemic.

As operations hopefully begin to resume over coming months, the increase in noise is likely to become more noticeable. It therefore feels like an appropriate time to highlight some things we are doing to limit aircraft noise. Learn Live Broadcasts

We're focusing on inspiring secondary school students from the local area to consider a job at Gatwick in one of the hundreds of interesting jobs around the airport.

Our exciting Learn Live programme brings the airport live to classrooms across the country. It is a chance for young minds to get a real insight into real jobs. Each broadcast centres on a different airport job and introduces students to the wide variety of careers on offer at Gatwick. Using a blend of pre-recorded videos and Q&A, students can ask employees questions about their roles and careers. You can rewatch our programmes anytime.
